Studying At Home or Abroad?

English language ability is an important first factor in the decision to study abroad. GEC helps with that, and once a student's language level is high enough, there are some other things to consider.

1. Does the program address student needs other than academics alone?
2. Will the student miss out on important network building opportunities in their home country?
3. While studying abroad, can the student expand network building opportunities in a purposed way?
4. Is the student building their critically important personal profile for academics and later professional use?

At Global English Campus, we understand the importance of each factor described above, and more. In our programs, your student is in good hands, with experts who have helped thousands of students structure and navigate a study abroad component of their academic career in a way that best suits their individual circumstances and goals.

Cost is the single largest inhibitor to attaining a quality education. GEC and our participating institutions are aware of the challenge in today's economic climate. That's why we offer scholarship opportunities to help you and your student achieve your dreams.

GEC's Test Preparation Program

GEC's Test Preparation Program is Built on CEFR Standards.

Every test, every lesson and every problem in our training program is associated with appropriate language training standards as defined by Cambridge University and the CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Language).

Three Phases of Test Prep.

- Placement Tests - 1 placement test addresses 1 skill. Proficiency in one skill might be higher than another.
- Skills Training - GEC equalizes all skills to the same level, and then moves students up the CEFR scale.
- Level Tests - Our level tests prepare students for a standardized English test.

The CEFR Levels

The CEFR describes language ability on a scale of levels from A1 for beginners up to C2 for those who have mastered a language. This makes it easy for anyone involved in language teaching and testing (learners, teachers, teacher trainers, etc.) to see the level of different qualifications. It also means that employers and educational institutions can easily compare qualifications and see how they relate to exams they already know in their own country.

ADDRESSING A COMMON MISCONCEPTION

There is a concern in some quarters, that association to a body of standards locks a curriculum into a fixed paradigm, when the opposite is actually true. Having curriculum on one set of standards makes it possible to map those learning goals across to any set of standards. GEC tags all lessons and problems both to Academic and Language Learning standards. This means the versatility of assessment potential can cross standards schemas in multi-dimensional sophisticated ways.

GEC Test Prep Cycle

Placement Tests • 01 Assess Per Skill

Reading is often the highest skill, while writing is often the weakest. GEC assesses each skill independently. This allows our systems to lean on student strengths while working on weaknesses at the same time.

CYCLES OF IMPROVEMENT

02 • Skills Training Equalize All Skills

Most test prep systems do not take a skills independent approach. GEC works to equalize all skills to the same level before moving student up to new CEFR levels. This results in more rapid progress and dependable test results.

Level Testing • 03 Test Simulations

When ready, students need to experience a simulated test. This prepares the student mentally and psychologically for any standardized English text they may face.

Testing doesn't have to be a stressful experience.

In order to assure a positive experience, students need to be well prepared BEFORE any testing situation, and our teachers are the best at getting English students there.
